

Urs Schneider, MD

Medical Director, DACH Region
Philips Healthcare

Dr. Schneider serves as Philips Healthcare’s Medical Director for the DACH region. His medical specialties include internal medicine, cardiology, emergency medicine and orthopedic surgery. Dr. Schneider’s clinical and research interests are life and health insurance, congestive heart failure, and emergency response and transport.

Dr. Schneider currently serves as an Emergency Technician for Swiss Air Ambulance. He is a member of the Swiss Working Group on Heart Failure, and serves as a reviewer for Guidelines in Cardiology/Congestive Heart Failure for the American Academy of Disability Evaluating Physicians (AADEP) and the American Medical Association (AMA). Dr. Schneider is a member of the European Society of Cardiology’s Heart Failure Association, and was formerly the chief medical advisor for Switzerland’s largest life insurance company.

He holds a BS in Economics from AKAD in Zurich and received his MD from University of Zurich. Dr. Schneider performed his residency in internal medicine at University Hospital of Zurich. He also holds an Executive MBA from University of Zurich and Stanford University.